SECTION - A (Reading – 20 Marks)

1 Read the passage carefully.

10

Archana Chakravarthy, 40, home maker and mother of two boys is our cook. Immaculately dressed as always, she arrives at our flat at 5:45pm, seven days a week. Her gentle manners and stylish attire belie the fact that she has been working since 5:30am, working in other houses, ours and her own.

Walking in, Archana surveys the fridge before deciding what to prepare. She offers suggestions but mostly prepares what we ask for. Though a Bengali, she makes excellent sambhar. "I like learning new recipes," she says with professional pride. "Different families have different tastes. Some like deep fried food, others dislike oil, some want spicy food others bland. No problem."

Most people take cooks for granted as long as they are good. "It's always nice when somebody compliments my cooking", says Archana, who even dresses well "because families must feel comfortable having me in their kitchen." We all want to look good at the work place.

While she makes every effort to please her employers and keep her jobs, her own life has been a hard one. The eldest of six sisters, she was married at 13 to a man who has been in and out of work. Archana's father, a farmer, was too poor to send her to school. But with her earnings she managed to get her five sisters married and bought a one-room flat. "But the place is too small for the four of us," she says, "the area stinks. I wish we had a larger place elsewhere. I also want my sons to get better jobs so they can lead a better life." Archana's biggest regret, "If only I could read and write, it could have made all the difference."

I remember, I remember
The house where I was born.
The little window where the sun
Came peeping in at morn;
He never came a wink too soon
Nor brought too long a day
But now, I often wish the night
Had borne my breath away,
I remember, I remember
The roses red and white
The violets and lily cups
Those flowers made of light !
I remember, I remember
Where I was used to swing
And thought the air must rush as fresh
My spirit flew in feathers then
That is so heavy now.
The summer pools could hardly cool
I remember, I remember
The fir trees dark and high;
I used to think their slender tops
Were close against the sky
It was a childish ignorance
But now it's little joy
To know I'm father off from Heaven
Than when I was a little boy
